MY EXPERIENCES AT GENERAL COUNCIL '94

By Heather Lindsay

Youth Forum at General Council was an awesome experience. We had ten days of camping, talking, singing, eating, and getting to know people all across Canada. Five or six people slept in eight-person tents that were ten minutes away from the nearest building, shower, and indoor washroom! The tents were a nice size - until people, luggage, and bedding were added.

In court we were given a chance to speak, either in table groups or at microphones, about what we thought on certain issues. Throughout the day, we were given constant cookies and coffee (food for thought?) as well as a chance to get up and stretch our legs once in a while.

After court was adjourned, Youth Forum would have its own program where we sang to let off steam and then split up into "home groups" to reflect on our day. After that (which was 11:00 p.m. or later) we were free to do whatever - as long as we were on the arena grounds by 12:00 a.m. We didn't have an official "bed-time".

All in all, I had a terrific time, met lots of new people, and I know I will never forget those ten days in August.

ACCESS NEARS COMPLETION

By Gary Mount

The First-St. Andrew's Access Addition is finally nearing completion. The bricks are going on, the glass is being installed, and the wallboard nailed in place. Soon we will all be enjoying improved access to our beautiful church building. The pictures show how much progress has been made.

The glass in the atrium is being installed.

The brickwork is truly marvellous. The arch over the door is self supporting!

The official opening has been tentatively scheduled for January 8, 1995 after the 11:00 a.m. service. The lower floor should be open by the time you read this. Starting November 11th, traffic in and out of both Queens Avenue and Waterloo Street driveways became two way. Drive carefully!

THE GENESIS OF THE THURSDAY MORNING BIBLE STUDY GROUP

By Jean Hill

In 1986, at a spring meeting of the Christian Development Committee, Sue Taylor, Director, expressed the hope that First-St. Andrew's would soon have more Bible study groups functioning. Ruth MacLean and I offered to help set plans in motion for a new group by September. Sue could not undertake the weekly preparation, so we wondered about rotational leaders for Bible study. Each member would take a week's preparation and presentation in turn.

The personal touch seemed to be good - so each of us wrote five or six notes of invitation to friends that might be interested. Coffee and refreshment were waiting as folks arrived at 9:15 a.m. on September 25, 1986.

During our term - September to mid-December - we studied and discussed Living Between Memory and Hope by David Lochead and Betty Jane Klassen. Attendance varied from eleven to seventeen - all women at first! Gerry Meacham, Aggie Ramsden, Madeline Cram, Lesley Pergau, Joan Bancroft and Marion Wilson and our original three met for several weeks. Then Piercy MacLean joined us and suggested we open it up to men. Ruth invited Gordon Hill and Bill Brintnell and they joined the Thursday Morning Bible Study.

The next term - January 15 to mid-May, we studied An Everyday God by James Taylor. Leadership and refreshment details were on a rotational sign-up system. That spring, Marion Wilson wondered if we might be doing something for some of the children in the Third World. She knew Prof. Del Wolsey, on staff at Althouse College of Education, for he and his wife were interested in adopting into their own home children from the third world. Consequently, Prof. Wolsey was invited to speak to the group. The response was very positive and the group felt they could contribute each fall and spring to "Families For Children".

Correspondence started. Soon after, our Bible Study Group received word about a joint project: a) Children's Home in Dhaka (Bangladesh) and b) Children's Home in Podanur (India), which at that time had over 1,000 children. In Bangladesh the children have their own school, whereas in Podanur, India, the children attend public school. Both projects supply extra vocational training. All children are accepted regardless of handicap. The majority of children are abandoned or orphaned, or children of such poor families they cannot afford to feed or care for them. "Families for Children" also arranges for surgery or medical attention as needed.

For some time now we have sponsored a brother and sister and pictures and reports of their progress are sent to us. Through all the intervening years, we have made two contributions yearly for "Families for Children". Soon after, we receive handmade pictures, art work and hand-made cards from them with their thanks! We hope we have made some difference to a brother and sister and their future!

When the Church and the Sunday School Departments began to use the Whole People of God curriculum, the Bible Study Group felt they would like to use the Adult Pack each week. Study sheets for each section and individual Member Study Packets are given out at the beginning of each term. Each study helps prepare us for Frank's or Catherine's Sunday sermon. For our last study session of the term, we enjoy hospitality at someone's home with, sometimes, a special treat of music.

Piercy would say, "We are here Thursday mornings at First-St. Andrew's - come as often as you can!!" Please consider joining us in the Fireside Room as often as you can.

MARIAN KEITH CLUB

unique, on-site mystery, still flowering among us

Part Four (of four): The Marian Keith Books

By Louise Wyatt

Some people who knew her only as Mrs. D. C. MacGregor might be surprised at her place in Canadian writing as Marian Keith. She has many works to her credit, one source says 14, one 17. Somebody might count.

It's my considered opinion that she followed the Socratic advice: "Know thyself", that she had no "ideas of grandeur" whatsoever and that she was much more interested in validity than in applause. She did not live to see what the standard reference volumes of the mid and late 1960's said of them. "She enjoyed great popularity as the author of light fiction and of evangelical romances full of local colour." Were they in great demand in your father's store, Herb?

Ralph Connor and Ernest Thompson Seton preceded her by about ten years. She was of my mother's time, a close contemporary, in publication with L. M. Montgomery and Nellie McClung, a burgeoning Canadian writing period, in which "she sketched an authentic and charming picture of rural Ontario, in the late nineteenth century ... humorous anecdotal material ...unexaggerated, typical ... an able chronicler of life." (Nancy McNee mentioned that the novels were first published in the Globe - I should have guessed as much in the light of her organization around key incidents and their carefully separated chapters, numbered, titled, with gently unified beginnings and endings.)

The negative critical comments say: "Little sense of structure, often thin characterization", conventional Victorian narrative action-lines. Their key value is not literary or stylistic. So do not look for the wrong thing. What to expect?

The Bells of St. Stephens (1927) is professionally described as being a "criticism of the apathy of the urban laity" - St. Stephens is red-brick and located near Orillia - "whose comforts and many opportunities for recreation made them indifferent to the work of the church and to the slums that were growing up around the factories." I went right down and got it, and a copy of Little Miss Melody (1921), out of the public library's good collection. (And if you don't know these books, I recommend that you do the same, as a sampling.)

The books are full of flowering gardens, "Canadian fiction of the time" noted one critic, for the most part presenting a Springtime view of the world. There is also a noticeable abundance and variety of literary lyrical quotations, especially in the Bells book as communications of love, with poems on trees, as in As You Like It. and also, as I've been told, in the MacGregors' own romance.

Louise Wyatt

Taken in bulk, Marian Keith's sentences can, if the truth be told, become pretty monotonous, and even the conversations don't always get off the paper. Now and again there is a slight Mariposa flavour - (Sunshine Sketches dates from 1912) and there are horned bits of personal observation and interaction. The Marian Keith gentleness is not bland, as witness the sentence which follows a quoted piece of recognizable doggerel being sung by the Sabbath scholars shouting joyfully like robins in celebration of "our an-ni-vers-sa-rie". The song had been written especially for the occasion by Jimmie Gibson's Allen, who was something of a poet, and again in undisturbed narration - "Peter was fifteen and had been tired for two years" and rather grimly of the imperceptible, smugly, self-admiring, unteachable, hopelessly holding forth and running on a Sunday school teacher who we learn "was not young and never had been."

But there is also the insightful, plain, matter-of-fact goodness, unforced and uncloying, refreshing, maybe even at times and as in Shakespeare's Cordelia, not all easy to present persuasively, with the symbol of the "inner song". It persists, and we can still recognize it, though the books' time-frame is not that of 1994. They come from a very different world, before organized psychology, before anthropological savvy was expected in the writing of a novel, before we first named our leaders, before congregations like ours, embraced and kissed each other, before our high speeds, our pressuring and garish mass media, let alone nuclear capability or genetic engineering. (Fermi was only four when Marian Keith's first book was published in 1905). So the books are inevitably period pieces to us, now.

Some are collector's items - quoted in Toronto ten years ago as in the $40-$45 range; early this year - non-Toronto - perhaps $20-$25 with variants for title and condition. By the time you read this, it is likely that a greatly enlarged collection of Marian Keith books will have been added to and made easily accessible, by our Church library. What with this welcome renewal and the public library collection - someone might check Weldon at UWO, our access to Marian Keith books will be near-at-hand and generous. They'll be back home in what was for twenty years, the MacGregors' home congregation - affording us another chance to explore what they offer - a sensitive, deeply rooted, goodness and humanity not to be sneezed at as passé. They persist on their own terms, even when times and surface modes change.

Marian Keith called one of her books As a Watered Garden, whose waters satisfy; and if you look up the references (in Isaiah 58:11 and Jeremiah 31:12) you will appreciate the beauty of the treasured image, the sense of ways and words, divine, other than our own, which was constantly at her centre, an uncontrived area flowing in joy instead of sorrow, and without fail. Sometimes the books imply, rather than exemplify such qualities, not exposing them to lower languages rushing in with inevitable inadequacy.

In the course of this four-fold project, I came across a quotation from Bliss Carman, about "a subtle heartening fragrance". He was writing about a peony - but to me it suits the memory of Esther Miller MacGregor and her life and works - especially the "heartening".

As for the whole overview of The Marian Keith Club and its originator director, you've heard of History and Herstory - well this is Ourstory. Its flavour, like that of a good garden, lasts.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE AT WORK

By Gary Mount

"That is a wonderful idea! Where is the money going to come from? What about the deficit?" It seems like these three sentences summarize many of the activities of the Finance Committee. We are the watchdogs of the church treasury, the Scrooges of FSA, the people that cry "Wolf" in the night. It isn't fun keeping our foot firmly on the brake pedal. We would much rather say; "Yes! There is plenty of money for all of the projects our church wants to undertake." Lately we have been taking a more positive tack since we do not want to discourage enthusiasm for new projects. Hopefully after the STEWARDSHIP IS CELEBRATION campaign, we can be even more optimistic.

The Finance Committee is very capably led by the church treasurer, Paul Huston. He is unbelievably hard working and he cares deeply about the financial condition of the church. (That sounds like a campaign speech but it's true!) He does so much that when the committee meets, there isn't much left for the rest of the committee to do. Paul has one year left in his tenure as church treasurer. Before his term ends, he (and the rest of the Finance Committee) would like to see a much closer working relationship between the Finance Committee and church Trustees. Together we can address the financial needs of the people of First-St. Andrew's.

ENVIRONMENTAL TIPS

From the Earth Stewardship Committee

Each week, Canadians bring home 55,000,000 plastic bags from grocery stores. Recycle them: return them to a store or bring them to rummage sales or bazaars.

Paul works closely with the church's business manager, Susan Brown, who is also part of the finance committee. Together they are responsible for all of First-St. Andrew's money transactions. Susan has been working hard on the Stewardship campaign and deserves a special note of thanks for her efforts in making it a success.

Russ Knight has agreed to be Vice Chair of finance and in 1995 will be the new church treasurer. Next year the committee would like to open up the budget process so that the congregation can have input into the decision making process. On Monday evening, January 16, 1995, we will be holding a special budgetary workshop open to every member of the congregation. This will be an opportunity to discuss the budgetary options open to the committees of FSA. Mark it on your calendars and hope to see you there!

CHILDREN'S MINISTRY

ordinator: Rev. Lindsay.

This concert, featuring the soloists of First-St. Andrews, will give you an opportunity to hear music for voice and various instruments, such as violins and oboe. There will be a wide variety of music performed and this combination of singers and instrumentalists should add up to a delightful afternoon of music.

Sunday, February 19, 1995, 3:00 p.m. ($8, $6)

WITH VOICE, PIPE AND STRING

We are thrilled to welcome back this world-renowned chamber ensemble after last May's exciting concert here. This will be the Quartet's only London concert this season, so you won't want to miss it.

Saturday, January 14, 1995, 7:30 p.m. ($10, $8, $5)

FRIDAY ADVENT NOON RECITALS

Throughout the genres support of "Friends of Music", First-St. Andrews' sponsors an excellent Concert Series which presents a wide variety of musical programs as an outreach to the community. Please refer to the enclosed brochure for the 1994-1995 season and plan to attend as many concerts as possible.

CONCERT SERIES

AT FIRST-ST. ANDREWS Music

All of our handbell choirs will play during services in Christmastide. In addition, the Laudamus Handbell Choir will perform the first of our Advent Noon Recitals on December 2.

THE HANDBELL CHOIRS

THE SENIOR CHOIR

The Music Ministry puts faith into action as it serves the congregation, reaches out to the community, and develops a bond of love and spiritual growth among its participants.

The Peace of Christ be with you all.

May the days and weeks to come be a time of hope, of hope fulfilled, for all of us.

As we enter these exciting seasons in the church year let us turn our attention once again to that essential Christian virtue of hope. We shall hope that out of the turmoil of the busy days ahead, peace will emerge. We shall hope that in the darkness of gloomy winter days [and gloomy winter souls], a light will shine. We shall hope that the miracle we remember and celebrate will happen in us, and he will find room in our hearts.

In short, there is in this season a mood of waking from sleep, of expectancy, the hope of new and exciting events about to burst on the scene. Just when the year reaches its lowest ebb and we dread the arrival of its coldest and darkest hours, our thoughts leap forward to the holiday season, and we begin to plan and craft, to compile and concoct good times for the gloomy days ahead.

Besides this you know what the hour is, how it is full time now for you to wake from sleep. For salvation is nearer to us now than when we first believed; the night is gone, the day is at hand. Romans 13

Prepare the way... A light shines in the darkness... Watchmen on the walls, get ready... Familiar Biblical stories all invite us to allow hope to grow within our souls. "Behold, the days are coming... Within our Christian tradition, Advent is the season of hope par excellence. The wreath, the hymns, the But even if hope is as constant as Emily Dickinson suggests, it does seem to have special times and seasons.

Emily Dickinson

Hope is the thing with feathers
That perches in the soul
And sings the tune without the words
And never stops at all.

Dear Friends,
